

Voter Registration Deadlines

No updates required since April 2, 2024

Background

While every state determines their own registration deadline, the National Voter Registration Act (NVRA) (1993) does not allow states to set a deadline more than 30 days before an election. Deadlines vary from up to 30 days prior to Election Day in some states to states which allow registration through Election Day. Allowing Election Day registration increases access for voters and can boost voter turnout.

Scoring

- If state has Election Day registration, +1 point.
- If state deadline is between 1-15 days prior to Election Day, +1/2 point.
- If state deadline is between 16-30 days prior to Election Day, 0 points.
