

Election Officials Face Threats of Undue Criminal Penalties/Fines

Scoring

- State has enacted law(s) imposing criminal penalties to intimidate election officials, -1 point
- State has no applicable law, 0 points
- Note: Despite the challenges of the COVID pandemic, the 2020 election was conducted safely and securely, and also saw record turnout—thanks in large part to the work of nonpartisan election officials. Despite this success, in 2021 some state legislatures enacted new harsh criminal penalties that threaten election officials with felony charges and heavy fines for minor technical infractions—increasing the potential for targeted intimidation and partisan abuse of election officials.
